GRANDMOTHER AND MOTHER OF SLAIN BABY ARE IN COURT

Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow Is Expected To Be State Rebuttal Witness

TROOPER ON THE STAND

Wood Expert From Wisconsin Is Called For Testimony

By James L. Kilgallen
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
FLEMINGTON, N. J., Feb. 9.—Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, grandmother of the slain Lindbergh baby, and her daughter, Anne Morrow Lindbergh, came into the court room today at the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann as the State was presenting rebuttal testimony. They entered the court room from a rear door and took seats near the lawyers' table. Mrs. Morrow was expected to be called as one of the State's rebuttal witnesses. Her testimony would be intended to clear the name of Violet Sharpe, the dead Morrow maid, of suspicion.

Not far from Mrs. Morrow and her daughter, sat Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, father of the murdered baby. He nodded slightly to them as they took their seats.

State Trooper Louis Bornmann, the first witness of the day, had just finished his testimony when they came in.

Bornmann repeated his previous testimony on a board taken from the Hauptmann attic. A board which the State contends matches "rail No. 16" of the kidnap ladder.

When Bornmann stepped from the stand, Attorney General David T. Wilentz recalled Arthur W. Koehler, of Madison, Wisconsin, noted wood expert of the United States Forestry Service. Koehler was asked by Wilentz to defend his amazing "scientific detective story" told earlier in the trial, by which he linked Hauptmann to the building of the kidnap ladder.

He said he did this largely through tracing similarity of "plane marks" on the boards in Hauptmann's attic and the boards in the ladder. They were identical, he earlier stated and "plane marks" are invariably like fingerprints.

A defense witness earlier this week used Hauptmann's own plane on a piece of wood to demonstrate that "plane marks" do vary, according to the pressure put on the plane.

Wilentz handed Koehler this piece of wood. The expert studied it and admitted the plane marks varied, but added, "all of the plane markings are

Miss Theresa Lavenberg Is Bride of John Donnelly

At 4.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Miss Theresa M. Lavenberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Lavenberg, 614 Swain street, and John Donnelly, nephew of Mr. and Mrs. B. Skinn, Green street, Morrisville, were united in marriage in St. Mark's Catholic Church by the Rev. Father Paul Baird. The ceremony was performed before the immediate families and a few friends.

The bride and groom were attended by Miss Rose Donnelly, 220 Buckley street, sister of the groom, and William Lavenberg, 615 Swain street, brother of the bride.

The bride was attractive in a gown of peacock blue crepe, a crepe turban to match and brown slippers; and she wore a corsage of pink rosebuds. Miss Donnelly was attired in a crepe dress, the color of which was ashes of roses. Her hat was the tone of her dress and her slippers were black. She wore a corsage of rosebuds blending with the dress.

Shortly after the wedding, the happy couple left for a honeymoon over the week-end. Upon returning, Mr. and Mrs. Donnelly will reside at the home of the bride.

Mrs. Donnelly has been a resident of Bristol public schools and graduated from St. Mark's school in 1927.

Coroner's Jury Exonerates Henry M. Zaleski of Blame

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 9.—A Coroner's jury on Friday afternoon exonerated Henry M. Zaleski, of New York City, from all blame in the accidental death of Henry Wahl, of 2865 North Mervine street, Phila., who was fatally injured on the night of December 23, 1934, while walking along the new Lincoln Highway near Trevoise Heights, Bensalem Township.

The car that struck Wahl was driven by Zaleski, one of a number of New Yorkers who were returning from Philadelphia where they played a professional basketball game with the Philadelphia "Sphas." Occupants of the Zaleski car included Gerard Radice, of Trenton; William Putzer, David Bass, and H. Dehnert, of New York City.

Wahl was stopping at a cabin along the Lincoln Highway and was returning from a roadside stand with some lunch to his cabin when he was struck by the Zaleski car which came up from behind.

The inquest was conducted by Dr. John J. Sweeney, of Doylestown, coroner of Bucks county, at the office of Justice of the Peace W. Carille Hobbsack. The accident happened one mile northeast of City Line about 12.50 in the morning.

State Highway Patrolman Carfagno, of the South Langhorne sub-station, investigated the accident. He said that Zaleski told him that he tried to avoid striking Wahl who appeared suddenly in front of him in the highway. The officer said that Zaleski had not been drinking.

Gerard Radice and William Putzer, other occupants of the car, testified they sat in the rear and that as they approached the scene of the accident they felt the car suddenly swerve to the side. They said that Zaleski was driving about 35 miles an hour.

David Bass, of New York, testified that he was seated next to Zaleski in the front seat and that the car was going 35 miles an hour. He said that he saw a man right in the middle of the car, in front, just about six or seven feet away. The man was walking in the same direction as the car was proceeding, the witness said.

Zaleski testified that he had been driving for about two years and that the man in the road, simply "came out of the darkness suddenly in front of the car." Zaleski said that he did not have time to sound the horn, and that he traveled about 50 feet after striking the man before he stopped the car.

Members of the Coroner's jury included N. F. Power, Raymond Rutherford, Abe Zinn, Robert Elack, Russell B. Gulick and Charles Hart. They found that Wahl came to his death from injuries received in an automobile driven by Zaleski and that the accident was unavoidable.

TRAIN HITS AUTOIST AT UNGUARDED SPOT

Traffic Officer Called Away To Arrest Alleged Wife-Beater

HIT BY FAST EXPRESS

BURLINGTON, N. J., Feb. 9.—Shortly after a patrolman who directs traffic at the railroad crossing at High and Bridge streets here was called from his post last night, a motorist drove his car into the path of the Nollie Fly, crack Pennsylvania Railroad express, and suffered injuries that are expected to prove fatal.

The victim, Wilfred P. Shinn, of Riverside, father of several children and a World War veteran, is in the Burlington County Hospital at Mount Holly, where little hope is held for his recovery.

Shinn, with no traffic light against him, drove his car directly into the path of the oncoming train. Seeing his danger, he attempted to leap from his car, but was carried down the tracks for nearly 100 feet beneath the locomotive. His car was hurled aside and demolished.

Shortly before the New York to Atlantic City flier was due at 7.22, Patrolman Nathaniel Estlow, who was guarding the crossing from a small booth with traffic lights, was called from his post by a superior officer to investigate a report of a wife-beating several blocks away.

While Estlow and Patrolman John Trydzuszek were in hand-to-hand encounter with the alleged wife-beater, P. Larson, at his home on Talbot street, late played his game at the unprotected mid-town crossing.

The train, in charge of Engineer J. Garbrant and Conductor M. DeCorcia, was brought to a stop near the Burlington station and Shinn's battered body was removed from beneath the locomotive. The victim was given first-aid treatment at the emergency hospital and then was rushed to Mount Holly.

When the two officers tried to arrest Larson for allegedly beating his wife and daughter, he is declared to have flourished a knife. Before he was subdued and manacled, police say, he struck one of the patrolmen in the month, inflicting a deep cut. He will be given a hearing tomorrow before Police Judge L. Leedom Smith.

STUDENTS TO STAGE MOCK SENATE SESSION

Twelve Schools to Participate in Affair at Bensalem on February 15th

UNEMPLOYMENT P A Y

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Feb. 9.—The rapping of the gavel, the hustle and bustle of pages, the speaking of senators (and senatoresses), all will add to the illusion of a make-believe Senate convening in the "Hall of Congress," here on February 15th, at two p. m. The "Hall of Congress" will be the Bensalem Township High School. The "senators" are the students of the schools participating: Bristol, Morrisville, Yardley, Newtown, Southampton, Richboro, George School, Buckingham, Langhorne, Fallsington, Lower Makefield, and Bensalem. Each school is permitted to send two senators for each state it is to represent. The number of states to be represented by each school was determined by enrollment. The "senate officers" were chosen from the students also.

The bill to be discussed is Unemployment Insurance. At the opening of the Senate, it will be assumed that it is reconvening after a brief recess. The reading clerk, Norman Williams, of Newtown high school, will read an excerpt from a fictitious journal, of the happenings in the Senate (also fictitious) of the preceding day. A senator will make a motion for the discussion of this particular bill. It is then open for discussion. One senator from each state will be permitted to speak from the floor and the speeches will be limited to a time space of three minutes. Each senator, however, will be permitted to vote.

The president of the Senate will be George Knoll, of Bensalem Township high school. The president pro tem will be William McNabb, of Morrisville high school. The bill clerk is Carl Hoffman, of Richboro. The sergeant at arms will be Kimbel Faust, Bensalem. The sergeant will have charge of 20 or more pages, to be provided by the home school. All the officers of the "Senate" are expected to fill their offices competently. The procedure of the real Senate will be strictly adhered to.

There will be present at the meeting of the "Senate" a competent parliamentarian, Dr. Charles Sohl, of the Abington high school faculty, to advise the body on the "rules and order." Also there will be admitted to the press gallery a representative of each of the school papers and of local newspapers.

This "day in the Senate" presented by high school students, promises to be a little more interesting than the real Senate. In this Senate, spectators will see students attempt to solve the problems that are puzzling much wiser and older heads.

AT NEW YORK DINNER

Lester D. Thorne, treasurer of The Bristol Trust Company, today is attending the annual dinner of the New York Chapter of the American Institute of Banking at the Waldorf-Astoria, as the guest of the Manufacturers' Trust Company.

CONSCIOUS-STRICKEN

By the Stroller
Friday, of last week, a gold watch and a ring were stolen from Mary Coyle, colored, 625 Race street.

Today Mrs. Coyle notified the police department that her watch and ring had been returned.

As Mrs. Coyle opened her front door, this morning, at about 6.30, she was startled when a bag fell into the room. The bag was opened and there were the watch and ring.

SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT REPORTS ON CONVENTION

J. H. Hoffman Gives Summary of Week's Activities in Harrisburg

LIST OF THOSE PRESENT

Report of the fortieth annual convention of Pennsylvania State School Directors and Secretaries Convention held at Harrisburg, February 5, 6 and 7, is given for publication by J. H. Hoffman, County Superintendent of Schools. The report follows:

Allegheeny led the Counties in the state as to the number of delegates attending. Bucks County ranked second in number of delegates representing 28 school districts in the county.

Dr. W. A. Roberts, Newtown, was re-elected as one of the five directors representing the State Association.

Bucks County was the only county in the state to have its delegates meet as a group during the convention at a dinner at Jackson's Domestic Science Kitchen, Tuesday evening, February 5, at six o'clock. Horace E. Thorn, president of the County Directors, presided. Senator Buckman and Representative Wilson Yeakel and Thomas B. Stockham were invited as guests.

Representatives, Mr. Yeakel and Mr. Stockham, made brief addresses, pledging themselves to co-operate to their fullest ability with the school directors in solving the problems confronting them. Senator Buckman could not be present on account of a committee meeting requiring his attendance.

Brief addresses were made by County Superintendent Hoffman and Charles H. Boehm, assistant county superintendent.

Representatives from 28 of the school districts of the county were present at this gathering, 55 in number, and it was a most pleasant and profitable gathering.

Those present were:
Bedminster Township: Samuel G. Detweiler, William H. Beer.
Bensalem Township: Richard W. Fechtenburg.
Bridgeton Twp.: Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Grovney.

Bristol Boro.: Stanford K. Runyan, Mrs. Laura C. Taylor.
Buckingham Twp.: William B. Carver, F. H. Lake.

Chalfont Boro.: Harry Riebel.
Doylestown Twp.: Mrs. E. W. Brinker.

Dublin Boro.: E. B. Laudenslager, Joseph H. Jones.
E. Rockhill Twp.: D. Paul Gavin.

Falls Township: Howard W. Satterthwaite, Walter F. DeLashmutt, Andrew Chamberlain.
Haycock Twp.: Victor Fluck.

Hilltown Twp.: Harvey H. Baum, William M. Seidel.
Hulmeville Boro.: Richard Hopkins.
Ivyland Boro.: Raymond Knipe.

DECLINES TO TESTIFY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—Arch W. Loney, engineer, in the Public Works Administration, and wood expert of the Interior Department, today declined to testify for the defense of Bruno Richard Hauptmann in the Lindbergh kidnap-slashing case, because of "too short notice." Reilly sought Loney as an expert to testify on the construction and make-up of the kidnap ladder. Loney in his reply to a telegram from Edward J. Reilly, chief defense counsel, asking him to appear before noon today when the defense was expected to close, replied by telegram that he had not had the opportunity to make a study of the ladder and hence did not believe he would be justified in testifying.

"I told Reilly," Loney said, "that the State's witnesses had had months of time to study the ladder and that it would take me some time to study its construction, character of wood in it and the markings, and that I could not give proper testimony without making such a study. Hence, I did not believe I would be justified in appearing as a witness."

Loney said he did not think it possible to identify the ownership of planes used in making the ladder from markings on the wood because "it is necessary for carpenters to sharpen such tools every day or two; hence, marks they leave would vary from day to day."

Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, declared that Reilly "lied" if he said that he, Ickes, had refused Loney permission to appear at the trial as a witness. He told Loney to "use your own judgment."

TO PROBE COLLISION

Philadelphia, Feb. 9.—Formal investigation of the collision between the freighter London Corporation and the Reading ferry Cape May in the Delaware River, will be conducted early next week by the Steamboat Inspection Service of the Department of Commerce, it was announced today. Hearings will begin, perhaps Monday, in the United States Customs House in an effort to learn the cause of the collision that injured 14 passengers on the ferry boat and sent river craft scurrying to the rescue in the harbor yesterday morning.

FLEETWINGS ENGINEER TO SPEAK TO SEA-SCOUTS

John Slater Will Address Morrisville Organization on Monday Night

TO INSTALL COMMITTEE

MORRISVILLE, Feb. 9.—The Sea Scouts of the S. S. Robert Morris will hold their annual "Alumni" celebration in the community house Monday night at eight o'clock. John Slater, aeronautical engineer at the Fleetwings, Inc., plant in Bristol, will make the principal address of the evening, while it is expected that several other outside speakers will take part in the program.

The "Alumni" program is featured every year in an attempt to bring together former, present and future members of the Sea Scouts. Many of the former members have expressed their intention of being present while several members of the more youthful Boy Scout troops in the borough are also invited.

At the meeting the newly elected Sea Scout Committee will be installed. Three new members, Borough Solicitor Willard S. Ortin, Dr. Victor C. Ellin, and James Holzmann will take their places along with Richard Landis and Albert McClenaghan, former members of the committee. This committee has charge of the activities of the Sea Scout activities throughout the year.

Prizes at Social Won by Misses Rathke and Herman

Sunday School class of Bristol M. E. Church, taught by Miss Elizabeth Smith, held its monthly meeting last evening at the home of Sara Ellis, 415 Lafayette street.

Business was discussed after which a social time was enjoyed. Prizes for games were awarded to Misses Margaret Rathke and Betty Herman. Refreshments were served, and each guest received a Valentine.

$25,000 FACTORY FIRE

BURLINGTON, N. J., Feb. 9.—A spectacular two-alarm fire early yesterday caused damage of more than $25,000, and injuries to seven firemen at the former Wood Shoe Factory, Stacy and Barclay streets, now occupied by the Fayman Dress Shop and J. Rosenfeld & Company, this city, the latter now being the owner of the building, part of which it occupies as a store house.

Morrisville Council To Fight Bus Company

MORRISVILLE, Feb. 9.—The fight between two bus companies to operate in Morrisville will be carried to the Public Service Commission of Pennsylvania by the Common Council of the borough. At a meeting last night a resolution was adopted providing that a committee be appointed before the commission at a hearing in Philadelphia next Thursday to protest against the Delaware River Coach Company operating in the borough on its present franchise permit.

Councilman Nichols, chairman of a special committee seeking the establishment of a municipally-owned electric plant, stated that he had inspected similar plants in Bucks County and found them to be profitable. The inspection is being continued.

Council announced that the borough's tax rate this year would be the same as last year. The amount to be raised this year is $40,912, of which $24,500 will come from taxes. The total amount for street repairs is $18,935.

Councilman Kohl commended the work of the fire department in holding the loss in the borough to $700 during the past year. The police committee reported that grappling irons had been placed in both the Capitol View and Union Fire Companies headquarters.

Council is now checking up on the duplication of street names and will change some of the names.

SNOW STORM OF 1935 WORSE THAN ONE IN '34

State Highway Department Explains Differences of The Two Storms

HOW IT WAS HANDLED

Comparison of the snow storm of January 22, 1935 with the storm of February 28, 1934, reveals that the 1935 storm was much more severe and more demoralizing to traffic, according to records of the Pennsylvania State Highway Department. This is borne out by the official weather bureau records, which report the 1935 storm the worst in 20 years.

The condition of 1934 was peculiar in that several inches of snow were laying when the storm of February 28 began. An average of eight inches fell in the new storm, which made the actual snow on the ground average about 12 inches. Sleet and freezing weather made the snow difficult to handle. In Bucks County, about 40 plows were employed and some 300 men, but later a large crew of "floating men" went to work with shovels, going from one highway to another, and restoring traffic.

In contrast, the 1935 storm deposited 12 to 15 inches of snow, driven by a 40-mile wind. The result was great drifts, with such weight that ordinary plows could not push the snow aside in every case. Such spots required the "V" type to bore a channel through for the rotary plows, which pick up the snow and cast it aside.

Due to the erection of additional snow fence and the use of more heavy and efficient equipment, the 1935 storm was met promptly and conditions were overcome more rapidly. Such equipment, of course, would not have functioned equally as well in 1934 against the sleet and heavy packs. For these reasons the 1935 storm did not require as many men as were employed in 1934. However, more equipment was required for a longer period during the storm of 1935.

Comparison of the two storms from every angle leads to the conclusion that the 1935 condition was worse, however, the local communities are likely to remember the 1934 storm longer due to the long period of sub-zero temperature which followed.

Yardley Bank Receiver Makes Good Showing

YARDLEY, Feb. 9.—The statement of the condition of the closed "The Yardley National Bank" issued at the close of the last quarter by the receiver, George H. Younger shows that the assets amount to $806,248.68 while the total liabilities amount to $502,237.33.

The cash collected from assets amounted to $325,328.22 and that from the stock assessment was $66,965.

A dividend of 6% has already been paid the depositors amounting to $177,108.31. The cost of the receivership, including those of the conservator, have been less than 4%.

The receiver announced that it is necessary that all depositors in the old bank who have not already done so, file with him a proof of claim as the legal limit for doing so will shortly expire.

It is the desire of the comptroller of the currency that all who are entitled shall share in dividends.

GOODWILL SERVICE

The second annual Goodwill Service under the auspices of the Bethel A. M. E. Church will be held tomorrow afternoon in the Bristol Presbyterian Church at three o'clock.

GANGSTER BLAMES TWO PALS IN WEISS KIDNAP-MURDER

Six of the Gang Are Held For Trial At Court

ECKART BLAMES TWO PUTS BLAME ON MARTIN FARRELL AND FRANK WILEY

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 9.—One of the "tri-State" mobsters "put the finger" on two of his pals yesterday in the kidnap-killing of the night life character, William Weiss.

The accusations were made in a heavily-guarded courtroom as six members of the band were held in connection with the abduction of the reputedly wealthy Philadelphia last Fall and his subsequent slaying.

William Eckart, one of the three of the gangsters held without bail on murder charges, turned on Martin Farrell and Frank Wiley, the other two similarly accused and held, and testified they, with Walter Legenza, electrocuted co-leader of the mob, were the principals in the crime.

Named as accessories and given hearings at the same time were Mrs. Beatrice Wilkinson, mother of three; Joseph Coffey and Harry Seibel, all captured last December when the headquarters of the gang, which was headed by the electrocuted killers, Legenza and Robert Mais, were smashed in a series of raids in North Philadelphia.

In his testimony naming Farrell, Legenza and Wiley in the abduction, Eckart asserted the latter "told me himself" the shots that killed Weiss were fired by Legenza and Wiley.

"Wiley told me that Walter Legenza fired the first shot into Weiss' head and then he fired the second."

"Wiley told me himself that he hated to kill Weiss, because he had never done anything to him."

Eckart went on then to give a graphic description of the disposal of Weiss' body in Neshauney Creek, at Croydon, on November 6, after he was shot.

"After he was knocked off," Eckart testified, "I got the iron weights and wire, which was used to tie up his body. I got them on Legenza's order."

"Wiley later told me they had a terrible time wrapping up the body, and once, just before they dumped him in the creek, they had to lay the body on the road and rewrap it."

"I threw one of the guns in the creek a few days afterward, but Legenza wouldn't give up his gun. He said he didn't care how many people he killed."

Eckart explained also the distribution of the $8,000 ransom money the gang got from Weiss' friends in a futile effort to obtain his release.

"The money was divided up between us," he said. "Mais, Legenza, Wiley and Farrell got $1,500 apiece. I got $500. Coffey got $500 and Mrs. Wilkerson and Seibel each got $400."

He explained that his part in the abduction was to "map out" the route the gang was to take from their hide-away, in Torresdale Manor, to Weiss' home the night of the kidnaping; "because the gang wanted to find a way to get there without going through Philadelphia."

"When we left Torresdale Manor that night," he went on, "I was in one car and Mais, Legenza, Farrell and Wiley were in another car following me."

"When we got there, I waited away from Weiss' home, and later, when the guys in the car joined me to be led back to Torresdale, Farrell got out of the car a minute and said to me, 'We've got 'Big-Nose' inside here.'"

With the law moving quickly against those accused in the Weiss slaying, the last of the notorious "tri-State" gang, which left a trail of murder and robbery through much of the Middle Atlantic States area, was in sight.

The executions of Mais and Legenza for the killing of a bank truck driver last Saturday eliminated the leaders, Charles Zeid, another member of the gang, is serving a long term for a payroll holdup along with Wiley.

Mais' girl friend, Marie McKeever, the only other known living member of the mob not in prison or present at the hearing is to testify against the accused abductors, and then will be taken to Baltimore to stand trial for harboring the fugitive Mais and for having in her possession Government rifles stolen from a National Guard armory at Hyattsville, Md.

Dr. John J. Sweeney, Bucks county coroner, testified at the hearing that either of the two shots were sufficient to kill Weiss. District Attorney Arthur M. Eastburn handled the case for the State.

The Bucks County Grand Jury will convene on Monday for the February term, and the gang members will probably be indicted at that time. Wiley will be the first to be tried and his case will probably begin about February 25.

Two Camden detectives attended the hearing and partially identified Wiley as the slayer of a policeman at that place several months ago.

HEATING HINTS

HERE'S the heating thought I want to leave with you today: Never shake a fire that is low. You can't expect to revive a half-dead fire by shaking the life out of it. Simply put on a sprinkling of fresh coal and give it time to ignite. Then when it has ignited completely, shake the grates very gently until the first red glow appears in the ashpit. Now your fire is ready for refueling. And when refueling remember to fill the fire box up to the level of the bottom of the fire door. A deep fire is much more economical than a shallow one. It burns less coal—lasts longer—and requires less attention. (16)

How do you CHOOSE?

EVERY time you make a purchase you make a choice. Buying a certain product may be so much a matter of habit that you don't realize you are choosing. But the fact remains that in accepting one brand of goods you are always rejecting others; and the satisfaction you get from what you buy depends on the knowledge of quality and values that guides your selection.

How do you know which bed-sheets, or which roofing material, or which radio will give you service you require? You can't personally test everything you buy and compare it with all the other products in its class. But there is a way to find out which brand fits your needs.

The people who are most successful in their buying—who achieve the highest percentage of satisfaction from the things they own and use—are those who consistently read the advertising columns, and buy consistently advertised goods.

Choosing isn't just "guessing" when you follow the guidance of the advertisements.

Kochler went to work hammer and tongs on the testimony of Charles DeBisschop, Waterbury, Conn., the lumberman who testified for the defense stating that "rail No. 16" and the attic board, were never part of the same piece of lumber. He had illustrated how one piece of board may match another by bringing to the Court two different pieces of board which matched almost exactly. He said he had taken one piece from a building 47 years old and another from a new building. DeBisschop swore they were not pieces of the same board.

Raising the Altitude Record

By BURNLEY

RAISING THE ROOF

Harold OSBORNE
VETERAN JUMPER WHO PROVIDES A STILL A THREAT BY DOING 6 FT. 9 IN. RECENTLY

Keith BROWN
INDOOR POLE VAULT KING WHO IS NOW CAPTAIN OF THE YALE TRACK TEAM AND HOPES TO MAKE THIS INDOOR SEASON HIS BEST

Walter MARTY
HIS WORLD'S HIGH JUMP MARK OF 6 FT. 9 1/2 IN. WILL BE BEATEN NOW THAT NEW RULES HAVE REMOVED SOME JUMPING RESTRICTIONS

While the indoor track season gathers momentum, those athletic aviators, the pole vaulters and high jumpers, are getting ready to raise the roof, so to speak. The "ceiling" in both these specialties is greatly in danger of being smashed during the next month or so, as the big stratosphere men of the track start out on their record flights.

Such high steppers (that's an understatement, at that) as Cornelius Johnson, George Spitz, Al Threadgill, Walter Marty and the veteran Harold Osborn will be out to elevate the high jump ceiling, while Yale's far-famed vaulter, Keith Brown, is the principal threat to the pole vault record.

The jumpers, aided by the more lenient rules as to form in clearing the bar, are very likely to surpass Walter Marty's phenomenal indoor mark of 6 ft. 8 1/2 inches and may menace the same star's outdoor record of 6 ft. 9 1/2.

Without the handicap of the old restrictions, even that figurative graybeard of high jumping, Harold Osborn, will be a dangerous competitor, as he proved by bettering 6 feet, 5 inches in an early work-out.

Brown, the Eli indoor aviator, is the present holder of the world's indoor pole vault record of 14 feet, 4 inches; and as he is now captain of the Yale track team, he is determined to make this the greatest of his many great years of indoor competition.
